Grumpy wizards make toxic brew for the evil Queen and Jack. One morning, when Gregor Samsa woke from troubled dreams, he found himself transformed in his bed into a horrible vermin. He lay on his armour-like back, and if he lifted his head a little he could see his brown belly, slightly domed and divided by arches into stiff sections. The bedding was hardly able to cover it and seemed ready to slide off any moment. His many legs, pitifully thin compared with the size of the rest of him, waved about helplessly as he looked. The screenshot shows the Google Web Fonts interface at the URL `www.google.com/webfonts#UsePlace:use`. The page has a blue header with the Google Web Fonts logo and navigation links: "More scripts (experimental)", "About", "Analytics", and "New to Google Web Fonts?". Below the header, there are three tabs: "Standard", "@import", and "Javascript". The "Standard" tab is selected, and the page displays instructions for adding font code to a website.

3. Add this code to your website:

```
<link href='http://fonts.googleapis.com/css?family=Roboto+Condensed|Fjalla+One|Junge' rel='stylesheet' type='text/css'>
```

Instructions: To embed your Collection into your web page, copy the code as the first element in the <head> of your HTML document.

» See an example

4. Integrate the fonts into your CSS:

The Google Web Fonts API will generate the necessary browser-specific CSS to use the fonts. All you need to do is add the font name to your CSS styles. For example:

```
font-family: 'Roboto Condensed', sans-serif;
font-family: 'Fjalla One', sans-serif;
font-family: 'Junge', serif;
```

Instructions: Add the font name to your CSS styles just as you'd do normally with any other font.

Example:

h1 { font-family: 'Metrophobic',
  Arial, serif; font-weight: 400;
}
```
